

Thomas D. Xenos was born in Thessaloniki, Greece, in 1955. He received his diploma degree in Electrical Engineering from the University of Patras, Patras, Greece in 1978 and his Ph.D. in wireless communications from the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, Thessaloniki, Greece in 1991. Since then he joined the Department of Electrical and Computer Engineering of the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, where he is currently Professor. He took part in many national and international projects and he has authored over 80 scientific papers. His research interests include wireless communications, radiowave propagation, electromagnetic fields adverse effects on humans etc.